

Following a further review in response to continuing rising oil prices, British Airways will restructure its fuel surcharge for tickets sold in its First, Club World, World Traveller Plus, and Club Europe cabins.

From Thursday, June 19, 2008, the fuel surcharge will differ by cabin to reflect some of the additional costs per passenger associated with carrying customers in premium cabins.

The current fuel surcharge level will remain unchanged for all long haul economy World Traveller and short haul economy Euro Traveller tickets.

Please reference the changes below to determine how the fuel surcharge increase will be applied for North American point of sale.

From the US (including Bermuda) and Canada, the increase on long haul segments for less than 9 hours in First & Club World will be $40 one-way ($80 round-trip):

|                             |  | Surcharge | Round-trip |  |  |
